Cheryl Buell, Narrows View Math Teacher, Named Teacher of the Year

This year’s University Place School District Teacher of the Year Award runner-up is Cheryl Buell. As a teacher at Narrows View Elementary School, Buell stands out for her work, passion, creativity, and impact on her students’ lives. Her innovative teaching methods, which include projects that allow students to work in small teams, have earned her statewide recognition. At Narrows View, she has been instrumental in developing and implementing new math programs. She also teaches advanced math to students in her classroom, providing them with a strong foundation in algebra and problem-solving skills.

UPSDD Administrators Promoted to Regional Leadership Positions

David Hammond, Curtis High School principal, is being honored as the University Place School District’s (UPSDD) School of the Year. Hammond has been with the district for 10 years and has been a driving force in the school’s success. He has been instrumental in the implementation of innovative programs and has been a strong advocate for student success.

This year, UPSDD has promoted several administrators to regional leadership positions. The district is expanding its reach and influence by providing opportunities for administrators to take on new roles and responsibilities. These promotions are part of the district’s ongoing effort to improve and enhance the educational experience for all students.

The class of 2015 is a special class as students and teachers work to be associated, a school and proud to present to the community. This year is a special year, and we look forward to the students of this class. Everyone has had an entirely different journey coming here. So OFFV, and there are many people who understand who you are and what you have experienced. Thank you for making your high school experience wonderful. Congratulations, and may the odds be ever in your favor.
